

Jonathan Paul - versatile design without the need to compromise carefully selected three brands which I treat as my design palette. Our core brand is 'Rational' it is innovative and a constant source of new designs. Then comes 'Architecture' this is a range of exceptional quality, custom furniture with beautiful book match veneers. We also have our 'Bespoke' product range, which allows me to commission exactly what I want in traditional and contemporary oaks and hardwoods, plus beautiful hand painted designs.

I am extremely fortunate - having such a selection of products means I never have to compromise. It gives me an incredible edge over other designers who are tied and restricted to a single brand".

Jonathan Paul, is the engaging, senior designer behind One Way Kitchens, in Southport, one of the UK's most exclusive kitchen design studios.

Over the years his kitchen designs have brought him a host of industry awards. Today, he is increasingly applying his talent for interior design throughout the entire home, with stunning results.

An examination of Jonathan's impressive portfolio does not disappoint, it reveals a selection of designs, contemporary and traditional, which are as diverse and influential as his client list. It catalogues his transition from traditional kitchen designer into the much sought after interior architect he has become. His recent work covers every area of the home, with designs which balance function and form, allowing his ideas to flow seamlessly through kitchen, lounge, reception and entertainment areas. Jonathan's bedrooms become havens of tranquility, his bathroom designs transform the merely functional into aesthetic features of the home.

Jonathan often oversees the complete home and interior design project, from draft and detail drawings to structural change and facilities management. Also TV and audiovisual inter-connectivity, lighting, blinds and the selection of soft furnishings.

He has a fascination with 'living design' and almost a sixth sense for perfectly matching the environments he creates with the very different lifestyle needs of his clients.

Jonathan explains how he is able to ensure each project is totally unique. "One huge advantage that we have at One Way Kitchens, is that we are truly independent. This means that my design resources are immense. Over a period of time, I have
